

ABSTRACT

Apparatus and methods are disclosed by which it is determined which ports in a system can be combined together to form a team and/or whether ports that are already operated as part of a team are eligible to continue to be operated in the team.